Jesuit theatre and education, Miguel Venegas. I intend to publish in book form the critical edition of the text and the Portuguese translation of the Tragedy of Ahab (1562). Once that first translation into modern language has been done, it would be very interesting to find someone who would be willing to work on the translation into English. It would eventually be a two-handed translation

I work primarily on Latin verse rather than drama, but have extensive knowledge of early modern Latin print and manuscript which extends to drama. Particular interest in early modern Latin metre, including e.g. dramatic choruses. I have a large database of post-medieval Latin verse in (mainly) English print and manuscript sources. I am very happy to share data from this with other scholars.
